STUBBORN COLDS

Cause Weak Lungs. St. Louis Druggist Suggests a Re- • liable Remedy.

We have a constitutional remedy for hard colds and weak lungs which we guarantee. Such letters as this prove its efficiency:—
Wickatunk, N. J. "I suffered from weak lungs, pains in my chest and very short of breath. I am an agent for the C. R. R. of New Jersey. I had a very bad cough and lost fifteen pounds in weight and my trouble interfered with my occupation so that I had to stop work last July. I had doctored for sometime without bene-fit, but when I learned of Vinol through a friend I decided to try it, and soon commenced to improve. My cough has gone, the soreness from my chest disappeared, I am working again and have regained the fifteen pounds in flesh which I lost." Victor Walden, Wickatunk, N. J.

The reason Vinol is superior to any ther remedy is because it contains deliciously palatable form the deliciously palatable form the ling, body-building and strength-ing element of beef and cod liver tones, iron and manganese pep-tes and glycerophosphates—the set and most famous tonics known o medicine. > Suburban Resident Sends In Her Contribution for Post-Dispatch Fund.

ALL PLANS ARE MATURING

Shipments of Perishable Goods Should Not Arrive in St. Louis Before Dec. 22.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Kirkwood has taken a place beside ligginsville as one of the earliest con-ributors to the Post-Dispatch Christmas estival Fund. Yesterday there came from Mrs. Anna Green of 661 East Monroe avenue, $1 to be applied to the crea tion of a stream of good cheer to flow to the homes and hearts of the worthy needy families, girls and boys and hom ess men on Christmas day. It has been part of the history of thu enevolent institution from its inception in 1899 that the sympathy from which it drew active support was not restricted to the boundaries of St. Louis, notwithstanding that the poor of the city and ose-in suburbs have alone been the cipients of the hospitality save in the meless men's dinner, which is open to nen from every quarter of the world ho may find themselves in St. Louis, nomeless and friendless on Christmas day. It seldom happens, however, that so much of the outside sympathy finds xpression in advance of that existing n such large measure in the city.

Shipments From Outside. It is not alone in contributions ney that the outside public lends it aid to the Festival. Every year there come shipments of poultry and produce which can be utilized in the filling of baskets for Christmas dinners for the estitute families, and each year this character of support comes in enlarged measure. Sometimes much of it arrives after the baskets have been distribute and thus is too late for the specific purpose for which the friends of the poor designed it, but it never fails to find its way to an equally worthy cause, being distributed among the organized charitable agencies.

In order that the generous spirits liv ing outside the city may have the satistions of supplies have gone to the makng of some family or families happy or hristmas, direction as to date for arival of such shipments, with proper address for same, will be given when these details are definitely arranged. Perishable supplies, of course, should e timed to reach St. Louis not earlier this year than noon of Friday, Dec. 22, owing to Christmas falling on Monday Because of this fact, the distribution of baskets will take place on Saturday Dec. 23, but those organized agencies which obtain their allotment in bulk obably will arrange in many instances get them to families on their lists

> Suggestions Ar: Pouring In. Suggestions which betoken the pres-ence of widespread and keen sympathy vith the Festival are daily reaching the Post-Dispatch in noteworthy volume. Many of these have to do with ways in which the masses of men, women and children may have a share in hearing the expense of the hospitality enterprise and derive therefrom a meas ure of the keen satisfaction that attends participation in so worthy a cause. zed endeavor to spread happiness among them on Christmas writes to suggest that the vast army of school pupils bring to the respective schools attended old magazines and papers for the purpose of their sale for the bene-fit of the Festival. That would be an excellent way in which the children might aid in creating the fund, but it would interfere seriously with the finan-cial plan of the Anti-Tuberculosis Soci-ety, an organization of vital importance the well-being and perhaps the life of stricken members of the community family, hence cannot be approved.
> Of the 750,000 population of St. Louis there are certainly one-fifth who may be depended upon to contribute an average of 10 cents. That average, from 150,000 men, women and children, would make an aggregate of $15,000, or $3000 more than is calculated in this year's hospitality program. In making the estimate of $12,000 th Executive Committee may, however, be in error as to the extra cost of every article entering into the plans, some of which have increased more than 100 pe cent, during the current year. Should the sum contributed reach $15.

000, however, not a penny would be wast-ed. Every cent given by the general public, including that already announced for the Post-Dispatch, is devoted exclusively to the provision of Christmas cheer for the deserving poor Not a penny is applied to the manage rial detail, the expense of this in it entirety being borne by the Post-Dis-patch. Last year the sum thus expended was but little short of $2000, and if twice that amount were essential to efficiency in seeing to it that every man woman and child in the city, who otherwise would go cheerless on Christmas day, derived a good measure of com-fort and gladness as guests of the community, it would be cheerfully taker care of.

"Miss Anxious" writes the Post-Ois-patch inquiring "when you are going to distribute the dolls to be dressed for Christmas." That is one privilege, Christmas." That is one privilege, highly valued by the women of St. Louis and suburban communities, along with a few men, which must this year be denied them. Only within the last few days has it become known to the Gift Committee of the Christmas Festival that dolls were to be had at all, and this was too into for them to be dressed as in former years. In fact, at the first meeting of the Executive Committee, last Friday, the absence of the dolls as a big part in the hospitality plans was under way for months, would be forthcoming, the 400 dozen promised the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival being about all the manufacturer would undertake for the holiday trade. The dolls thus obtained are splendid types of that arti-cle so dear to the hearts of little girls, but the best that could be done was to have the manufacturer garb them in calico dress, for otherwise they would have had to go out unclad.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee at 12:15 p. m. today, in the City Club, the chairmen of the various deand extended progress toward the rounding up of every detail of the great festival project. In many respects the affair no doubt will be found to move with even greater smoothness and satis faction than did that of 1915, and that was far ahead of former years in the excellence marking every detail.

The men and women composing this working body are applying themselves to the arduous duties undertaken with a deeper and tenderer sympathy than is pestowed upon their individual affairs. Most of them have been identified with the cause for many years and have grown to love it as they do no other ex-

PLENTY OF TURTLES, AT $2 UP, FOR PHILADELPHIANS

ght Along Banks of Lowe Schuylkill—How the Hunters Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.-While other foodstuffs are high, epicures of this city are rejoicing over the largest and best supply of snapping turtles for many seasons, the price of which is accordingly within the average limits from $2 up, according to size.

The turtles are being caught along the banks of the lower Schuylkill River, and the success of the hunters is at-tributed in part to dry weather and mild temperature.

The hunters work early in the morning, following the trail of their prey along low mudbanks until they disappear, usually at the trunk of some tree or at an ancient bulkhead or other bject. The mud then is probed with ong steel hooks to a depth of 10 or 13 feet, and the snappers are in this man ner brought to the surface.

Several large snappers have been taken in the last two weeks. One of them according to calculations of ex perts, must have been at least 20 years

BALTIMORE, Dec. 6.-A gift of 10,000 lire, about $200, from the Apostolio See Belgium, is announced in an autograph etter from Pope Benedict to Cardinal Gibbons, made public here. The Pope ican children by a recent report from Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the ous Belgian children who, during we sad years, have been suffering from the lack of that proper nourishment ecessary to sustain the tender existence of budding childhood." The message by which Cardinal Gibbons is trans-litting the appeal to the Bishops, says: "If I may presume to make a suggestion, I respectfully propose that the most efficient and prompt way to relieve the afflicted little ones would be obtained by a general collection in your urisdiction or by any other means your rudence would suggest."

Letter From the Pope.

"My Lord Cardinal:
"Profound compassion of a father has again moved our heart, when we read an important letter recently sent to us by the distinguished chairman of the praisworthy 'Commission for Relief in Belgium,' describing in few words, yet showing proof of most terrible reality, the pitiable situation of numerous Belgian children who, during two sad years, have been suffering from the lack of that proper nourishment necessary to

Has Insufficient Means. "In his letter the chairman has told s how, in order to ward off so much lness, his commission, displaying the very best of good will and stopping at no sacrifice, has arranged for the distripution to the children of a daily supplementary meal. He sorrowfully adds, however, that unhappily, owing to insufficient means, the commission has found itself unable to prepare and supply such extra food to all the babies who have need of it.

"In this emergency the worthy chairman has turned his thought and his heart to the millions of children of your happy, noble, America, who, in the abundance with which they are now surrounded, could they be given an exact idea of the pitiable and unfortunate condition of their little fellow creatures in That his body be cremated was the first provision in the will ing and encouraging word might reach them from us—would not hesitate a moment to co-operate heartily, in accordance with some prearranged plan, to come promptly to the relief of these needy Belgian bables.

so humanitarian and so holy that, in prompt compliance with the appeal addressed to us by those who are directing the work of the commission, we have decided to approve and recommend it, as we hereby do indorse it most heartily by these words to you, My Lord Cardinal, and through you, to the illustrious members of the American episcopate, to the clerky and to every generous heart; but particularly to those children of American the had tried to serve it in life.

The American working man claims that Europe is a bad country, that tyranny is great, that mil tary duty is rough, but now we come to the main point, dear reader. Do you realize that working men and women in this country are dying of hunger and are on the streets begging for pennies? What makes them suffer so much? Living costs are very high, neither labor nor educated persons are paid well, rents and foodstuffs are advancing and wages are going down. Time is coming when the laborers will be like the negroes of years ago They are treated like white slaves now.

THE SHORT SESSIONS' WORK.

President Wilson devotes the greater part of his brief business message to his uncompleted program of railroad legislation. He urges Congress to finish the work begun during the late session by the adoption of the Adamson bill.

Withdrawing the suggestion that Congress ecommend the granting of an increase of rates by the Interstate Commerce Commission, if found ecessary on account of the eight-hour law, he presses for the enlargement and regulation of the public investigation of the merits of disputes shall of sound public policy in connection with election be completed and the empowering of the executive frauds. to control and operate railroads for military purposes when necessity arises.

The President clearly and forcefully supports all mediation and arbitration resources fail, before a strike can lawfully be called. It is required by the merits of the controversy between employing railroads and their employes.

He pleads necessity for the reorganization of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enable it to do its work and for the Government operation of trains in the event of military necessity The necessity is manifest in both cases.

The suggestion of a recommendation of an ncrease of rates is withheld on account of the 'indisputably clear" power of the Interstate Commerce Commission to grant the increase.

The remainder of the message is devoted to pleas for action by the Senate on measures passed by the House, dealing with greater freedom of combination for those engaged in promoting the foreign trade of the country. The President urged the House to adopt the Senate bill providing for the promotion of vocational and industrial education.

The wisdom of concentrating work on a few important measures of unfinished business is manifest. Nothing more can be done in the short session. The work cut out by the President, particularly the railroad legislation, would round out the important work of the present Congress into an excellent accomplished program.

Instead of buying an electrical chair, Arizona has just abolished capital punishment altogether. The hangman's knot is untied and there will be no volt disputes in "Arizony."

THE LAND BANK MEASURE'S DEFEAT.

The amendment authorizing the principle of the Gardner land bank bill polled a majority of votes in the State outside of St. Louis. The vote of 100,544 nays to only 47,431 ayes in this city, however, caused its rejection by more than 50,-000 majority. It is announced that a campaign of education designed especially for St. Louis' benefit is planned and that the amendment will be resubmitted two years from now.

In the meantime why not put into temporary effect a form of rural credit organization to whose even on interurban mileage outside of cities is legality no constitutional amendment would be less by a considerable fraction than 2 cents. necessary? JUDGE PRIEST'S STRONG LETTER.

The labored and evasive reply of Chairman Bakewell of the so-called Nonpartisan Citizens' Committee does not meet Judge Priest's strong indictment of the committee for partisan investigation of election frauds. Judge Priest's letter Interstate Commerce Commission, the prohibition to Mr. Bakewell contained a discriminating measof strikes and lockouts on railroads until a full ure of values and a clear and forceful exposition

He was right in finding greater menace and injury to public interests in fraudulent voting than in mistaken challenging. Challenging is justified by facts indicating fraud or suspicion of the equity of a provision for investigation, after fraud. He was right in giving prime importance to a miscarriage of justice in a court dealing with alleged election offenders. In the main he was right in condemning prosecutions of electhe public interest and does not involve compul- tion frauds by select committees or private sory employment. It merely enforces delay of funds. These may be useful instruments in unorganized action until the public is informed of covering crimes, but they cannot be depended upon for either impartial investigation or prose cution. That duty devolves upon official prose

If neither the Federal or the State prosecutor have the means to investigate the charges o election frauds, citizens can lend useful aid by placing resources at their command. Let us have a thorough and impartial inquiry and if prosecution follows, let it be official and fearless Fake noblemen have recently been swindling people in Italy. The war probably makes hard for them to get over to America.

THE M'KINLEY LINE'S FRANCHISE. City Counselor Daues' judgment is that an appeal to the courts should be taken from the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission approving the McKinley Line's increase from 5 to 10 cents of the fare to Granite City, Ill.

While the public has noted with satisfaction of the commission, this is a case in which judicial determination will assist in clearing up a considerable area of twilight zone. Perhaps it is only a coincidence that the Federal board in Manifestly the case is on a different footing from the case that would be presented had the company purchased a private right of way to its St. Louis terminus, which right of way could no have been acquired at a cost of less than several millions of dollars. If it had paid an excessive sum for such a right of way, the commission would not have interfered for the company's relief. Had it contracted to pay an excessive sum, the board would not have ventured to vitiate the contracts.

But the company obtained its entrance privileges to the city free of charge. The only quid pro quo it was required to give for the immensely valuable portion of its assets which it derived from the city was contained in the compensator; stipulation that the fare on seven miles and a half of its line should not exceed the usual 5-cent street car fare in American cities.

The reasoning by which Commissioner Clement justifies the disturbance of this arrangement is a little startling. He says the Illinois 2-cent law would entitle the company to charge 15 cents for the haul.

Would that law permit interurbans to charge cents a mile on any city lines they might own, irrespective of franchise obligations? Such a the ory might be construed to permit a charge of 25 cents or more in cities like St. Louis, which bave car routes exceeding 12 miles in length. We know that, taking the country through, the fare

The community will not be satisfied to have the case rest at this stage. The power of the board to interfere with local transit arrangements in the same industrial district and practically the some community, though bisected by a state line, should be defined. Its power to impair the validno other government authority of whatever description-judicial or otherwise-has ever before ventured to vitiate should be determined.

Are hunters more careful now? The toll for slain hunters in 1914 was 111 dead and 162 injured in 17 states. In 1916 the figures are 86 killed, 41 injured in 15 states. For opportunities to die game there is nothing like hunting.

THE FLOCKING SECTS.

N the heyday of the Dunkards and others it used to be said in Colorado that there were more kinds of Christianity than there were Christians. Whether one has gained on the other since that time, and if so, which one, we do not know; but we suspect improvement. It is the tendency of our time. The Federal Council of Churches, in session here this week, indicates, perhaps, a great abridgement in denominationalism in the not very distant future.

The denominations and branches of denominations represented in the Federal Council are: Baptist, Free Baptist, Congregational, Disciples of Christ, Friends, German Evangelical Synod, Evangelical Association, Lutheran General Synod, Mennonite, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal South, African M. E., African M. E. Zion, Colored M. E. in America, Methodist Protestant, Moravian, Presbytrian, Presbyterian Church South, Protestant Episcopal Commissions on Christan Unity and Social Service, Reformed in America, Reform States, Reformed Episcopal, Reformed Presbyterian General Synod, Seventh Day Baptists, United Brethren, United Evangelical, United Presbyterian, Welsh Presbyterian.

We miss a good many old familiars, but it is a mighty fine sign. There are some denominations too truly rural to come into town, we suspect, which has made some difference.

Fifty Boys and Girls Famous in History

By Albert Payson Terhune.

SIR JOHN FRANKLIN; the Boy Explorer.

GROUP of English boys were chatting in a corner of a schoolyard, planning what they should do to make themselves famous. One declared he was going to be a great soldier; another a Prime Minister, and so on. At last the smallest lad in the group was asked to name his life ambitton. He was a spindling, dreamy-eyed child of 9-John Franklin, youngest son of a Lincolnshire family of 12 children. With no hesitation at all, he

He was not in the least shamed by the yells of laughter that greeted his words. Already, he had made up his mind to be great, although he had not yet worked out the ways and means.

His father, from the first, wanted to make a clergyman of him. John was willing enough until, at the age of 10, he happened to spend a day at the seashore. The magic of the sea got into his brain. He went home and announced that he was going to be a sailor instead of a clergyman. His father tried to argue this idea out of him, but with no effect. Next he tried threats, and even whipping. The lad remained firm. So his father racked him off to boarding school, to drive out sea-yearnings with overdoses

For two years John remained at school. But never did he falter in his resolve to be a sailor. At last his father tried to cure him of the fancy by sending him as cabin boy on a long merchant cruise, where the work would be hard, and the food would be A Boy's One bad, and the discipline severe. Ambition. But the 14-year-old boy came back from this ordeal a hundred times more determined than before to follow the sea for a livelihood. His father gave up the struggle and secured for him a berth as "first-class volunteer" aboard the warship Polyphemus. England was at war just then and John's imagination was fired by prospect of adventure and conflict. He dreamed of warlike honors and of devoting

Three weeks later the Polyphemus took part in the battle of Copenhagen. one of history's bloodiest sea fights. Franklin was in the thick of it. The horror and carnage of war were brought hideously close to the lad, who had hitherto thought only of its glory. And he profited by the lesson. While he acquitted himself valiantly in that and other battles, yet he began to look for a career that did not hinge upon the slaughter of his fellow men.

And presently his chance came. He was assigned to a midshipman berth on the Government vessel Investigator, which had first been ordered to Australia on an exploring trip. A party of Government scientists were to make maps and survey of the Australian coast. Franklin was detached to help in this work. For the first time he tasted the joys of an explorer. For the first time, too, he had a glimpse of the mysterious world of science. His imagination was aroused as it had never been by mere warfare. Henceforth, at heart, he was an explorer.

He proved useful, too, when one detachment of scientists was obliged to consult with some French savants. None of these scientists chanced to speak French. Neither did Franklin, for that matter. So he conversed with the learned Frenchmen in Latin, acting as efficient interpreter for his companions.

On the way back to England, Franklin was ship-Exploring. wrecked and lived for weeks on a coral reef. Thus he learned how to endure hardship and eke out a living from among desoluate rocks-a knowledge that later was to serve him well in the Arctic regions. On the way home, too, his ship was drawn into a hot fight with a French squadron. And soon afterward he fought gallantly in the battle of Trafalgarthe battle that made England the ruler of the sea. Incidentally, the ceaseless cannonading that day left Franklin partly deaf for life.

When peace came his mind returned to the joys of exploring. The British Government had offered $250,000 to the mariner who could find the Northwest Passage, and $25,000 to anyone who could come within one degree of the North Pole. These offers started John Franklin on the voyages that brought him immortality—and death!

What to Buy the Kiddies for Xmas

Y children are not going to re-ceive any toys this Christ-mas," said a mother, "It would be the height of foolishness in these high cost of living times to spend money in that way, and I've told them they need not look for any."

If this mother could see the throngs of children that congest the toy sections of every shop on Saturdays and the eagerness with which they watch the mechanical toys and how fondly they handle some coveted article wonder if she would have the courage to refuse her children the joy of toys? Christmas hardly seems real to child without something new to play with. Merchants realize this, and there is no more attractive place in New York than the toy department of the big store at this season.

If this mother visited a toy shop she would find practical toys that really serve a purpose. Many an artist has received a start from a toy box of crayons or paints that developed latent talent. If you wish your girl to become a needlewoman perhaps a set of stamped linen patches and embroidery cotton will start her on the path. There are sets with canvas, yarns and patterns for cross stitch. Others have beads, crewel etc., and prices range from 25 cents to $9. A bead loom with which she can make many pretty articles costs $1.25.

For the little hausfrau there ar white and gold china closets and beautiful dishes to put in them at $2.50 a set. A tea set big enough to serve tea for mother's guests sells for $4. Then there are an aluminum coffee sils at 50 cents. A baking set in the brown ware costs 50 cents.

For the boys there are building blocks, scroll saws, model builders, structure work, etc., all practical and of educational value. Of course, war essels, submarines and torpedo boats that really go are the delight of the boys, as are the aeroplanes and biplanes that actually fly. Then there is a magic box from which can be produced all sorts of mystifying tricks that will amuse the entire family. These are to War games are prominent. One dealing with American defenses is popular with the boys and it is interesting to hear the "moves" suggested by these There are the usual baseball games as played on the national diamond, and table golf that seems to interest the players quite as intenseley as does the outdoor game.

MYER BENDER vs. Eddie Sanders, flyweights, 4 rounds Bender the winner on points.

Determination and a heavier punch won for Bobby Burns of Dallas, Tex., over Harry Kabakoff of this city in their 12-round bout at the Future City Athletic Club last night. Kabakoff was fast and scientific; but Burns discounted this by his aggressiveness and the ed this by his aggressiveness and the certainty with which he picked openings for his punches and then landed with damaging effect.

It was a good contest, with Kabakoff showing more willingness to stand his ground than he ever has before when matched with a boxer his equal or better. He did some breaking from punishment by going backwards from his opponent; but he did very little of the covering which has heretofore evoked so much unfavorable criticism.

There were times last night when he tried to assume the aggressive and hold it, and succeeded for brief intervals, only to lose it after a hard struggle with the rugged, more experienced infighter.

Many times, too, Kabakoff stood shoulder to shoulder with Burns and tried to outhit his opponent with body punches; but in this he invariably failed. He was best at long range, particularly so in the early rounds of the bout; but Burns wisely refused to make it that sort of a contest and persisted in boring in until at close quarters, and then he was too much for Kabakoff.

The Uplift

By Sam Hellman.

HE world is made up of two dis tinct classes—reformers and those who are happy because they don' have begun to outnumber those "that walk in the darkness." Soon everyone will be a reformer, then the reformers will have to reform the reformers who haven't been reformed to the extent een reformed.

Margaret Pearson left Vassar with a A. B. and a mission in life. The A. B. she left at home; the mission she too with her to the Peerless Departmen Store. She didn't tell Campbell, the owner, that she had a mission; she merely asked for a position. She got a job in the kitchen utensils.

The only thing that Campbell knew about missions was mission furnitur and he didn't care much for that; the long haul ate up your profits. So it was well that Margaret had concealed the kitchen utensils Margaret stoo the heart of her chosen field. All out her were girls who she knew the making only $6 a week, out of sich they had to support an invalid other, provide drink for a slothful faner, besides sending little Luke to thool-Luke whose hip could only be ured by an operation performed by an expensive surgeon. She knew that the apparent gayety of the girls was forced and in reality their souls were corrod-ing with loneliness and shattered hope and that their bodies were drooping

Margaret had not studied sociology in o no purpose. She could look beyond the laughing eye and see the aching t. Superficialities did not delude The girls about her were physlly underfed, were suffering from ritual malnutrition and were ripe for he touch of the tempter. These things

For the first few days the uplift was confined to kitchen utensils and man of them were heavy enough to requir all the uplifting she had in stock. Then Margaret cast about her for a shattered soul and she beheld Mazle Grew. Made looked tired and she was. She had danced until nearly 3 that morning.

"Where did you come from?" asked

The answer slipped from her lips me

"Oh, that candy store on the ave Why don't you get into candles here? There's more money in it. Margaret changed the subject. She could do her work more effectively if the girls thought she was one of them. Mazie introduced her all around—"she used to work at the Vassar." garet to go with her and her steady,

Joe Mott, to a dance.

Margaret was delighted. It was an opportunity to study Old Man Tempta-tion in his own precinct. Mazie's steady was a teamster for a brewery. He was glad to have Margaret come along. By the time they got on the street car he was calling her Maggie. At the transfer point she was "Mag;" at the getting-off place she was "kid" and "bright eyes." Margaret played her part well. The Vassar A. B. called the brewery teamster "Joe" as if they brewery teamster "Joe" as if they had played in the same mud puddle as

The dance was one of those kind where no hold is barred but where you must move your feet. The prevailing hold was a sort of half-Nelson.

"Come on, Mag," said Joe. "Let's steal Joe back? You can have him."

"Bure," replied Margaret.
She refused an invitation to drown herself in a "tub of suds." The dance was over about 1 o'clock. They took looks after the girls. You seem to have Mazie home first. She seemed unhappy about something; perhaps it was bedergaret.

At Margaret's boarding house Joe for work in the morning. You may go "Listen, kid. Mazie thinks I'm her steady, but 'taint so. I'm getting kind a stuck on you, bright eyes. Can
